SEYMOUR
DURST

READY-MADE dresses are now a success—the troubles that have arisen in the past have all been overcome and anyone of ordinary figure can now be fitted perfectly.

These illustrations are a few of many styles that we have pleasure in showing.

If one can be fitted in this way the saving in cost, between buying material and paying for making is such that no one can afford to spend time or bother themselves with the work—beside paying more in the end.

The prices given for making these styles in other fabrics are conditioned on the goods being bought at our store—we do not make up goods purchased elsewhere and sent to us.

These dresses are completely finished, having whale-bones, belt tape, reeds and bustle in skirt.

BONNETS AND HATS.

The season opens with a great variety of rich and fancy materials for bonnets and trimmings. Black and tinted silk nets, beaded in jet, iridescent, heliotrope, yellow, pale blue and pink beads, oriental embroidered nets in great variety. neapolitan crêpes in dainty summer tints, and embroidered grenadines, crêpe de chine and other thin silken fabrics.

The new straw bonnets, which are small and shapely, can be had in all the new tints and combinations. The favorite colors are Mousse, Zinfardell, Vieux rose, Aquarin, Aztecs, Eucalyptus, golden brown, Charles X. pink, olive, sage, Henry V. rose, heliotrope or wisteria and peach blow, ecru, grey and the natural straw and wood colors.

Some of the combinations in porcupine and rustic straws are pink and ecru, heliotrope and white, sage and ecru, &c.

Open work straws are again in favor, some with a crown of the open straw and a front of fine Milan braid.

Milan and chip braids are in all the prevailing tints.

The shapes are close cottage with medium crowns, small pokes and coronets.

Fancy bonnets are made of the thin materials already described, trimmed with picot edged velvet, silk and gauze ribbons, flowers and tips combined with bead trimmings and laces.

RIBBONS.

The variety in ribbons is, as usual, great; and but little idea of this season's designs can be given in this circular. There are novelty ribbons in checks with narrow velvet stripes and picot edge (feather edge) in all colors; Plaid gros-grain ribbons with double edges; ribbons embroidered on one edge with pansies; gauze ribbons in all colors, from one to three inches wide (the narrow for neck ribbons). Watered ribbons with crown edge in all widths, and sash ribbons to match. Faille ribbons with loop edges that are used for both bonnets and dress trimmings in all shades; No. 16 is the width most used for both.
